

"CHARGE THOSE LINES."

How the First Minnesota Turned the Tide of Battle at Gettysburg.

From Harper's Weekly.

The charge of the First Minnesota at Gettysburg saved the day, and is considered the most heroic charge authenticated in history in the midst of the fiercest battle of the centuries. General Hancock, reaching the spot where the Union line was being forced backward, called out.

"What regiment is that?"

"The First Minnesota."

"Charge those lines!"

A charge into eternity that order meant. At double quick, without discharging a gun, they charged into the enemy's advancing ranks. General Hancock saw that a five minutes respite meant the arrival of reinforcements. He sacrificed this noble regiment in those fearful five minutes, and the position was held. The charge saved the day, but eighty-two per cent. of the men who made the charge were left on the field dead. Every officer was dead or mortally wounded.

Specimen Cases.

Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Catawba, O., had five large Fever sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. One bottle Electric Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. No Race of the Locomotives.

The statement telegraphed from Chicago and printed in the New York newspapers on Monday to the effect that a trial of speed had been arranged between locomotive No. 999 of the New York Central Railroad and the British locomotive Queen-Empress, the property of the London and North Western Company, now on exhibition at the World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago, turns out to be untrue. No such trial is even under contemplation.—New York Sun.

Preventing Future Misery

If there is, in this vale of tears, a more prolific source of misery than the rheumatic twinges we have yet to hear of, it is the fact that we are born with a tendency to rheumatism just as they are with one of consumption or to scrofula. Slight causes may develop this. As soon as the oncoming complaint manifests itself, a resource should be had to Foster's Stomach Bitters, which checks its further progress and banishes the rheumatic poison from the system. This statement tallies exactly with the testimony of physicians who have employed this fine blood purifier in their private practice. There is also the simplest professional and general testimony as to the efficacy of the Bitters for malarial, liver complaint, constipation, indigestion, kidney trouble, nervousness and loss of appetite and flesh. After a wetting, whether followed by a cold or not, the Bitters is useful as a preventative of the initial attack of rheumatism.

During the year ended September 1, 55,244 invalid pensions were granted and 56,702 claims were rejected. During the same period 12,371 pensions were suspended, but payment has been resumed in 6,072 of these cases. The pensions of 3,856 persons residing abroad have also been suspended.
